Location

This cottage is set within the village of North Lopham, which is well regarded, and offers a basic range of amenities including a public house and primary school. The neighbouring village of Kenninghall, just a couple of miles away, has wider range of facilities, and the bustling market town of Diss is just 7 miles east along the A1066, offering schooling and sixth form, excellent independent shops and local businesses, sporting & social facilities, and good transport links - with a mainline rail service to London Liverpool Street in just 90 minutes.

The property

Denmead is an attractive detached cottage, parts of which are thought to date back to the 17th century. Offering comfortable accommodation throughout which includes four, good size bedrooms and two welcoming reception rooms, it's evident that the property has clearly been loved by the current sellers from the moment you enter. The ground floor spaces are in keeping with what you would expect from a cottage of its age, however there is also a lovely sense of being open plan at the front, between the entrance hallway and sitting room, which has been created by the aged, exposed timbers that cleverly divide the spaces. From a functional perspective, the kitchen offers a double oven and range of useful, integrated appliances, including a fitted microwave oven. The kitchen is supported by a utility at the back of the cottage, and off the rear lobby a cloakroom, and bathroom can also be found - which is in addition to the first floor shower room.

Outside

Unassumingly tucked down the bottom of a private lane, to which the cottage has a right of access over, Denmead has its own driveway to the side, as well as a further space directly to the front which allows parking for approximately three/four vehicles in total, whilst set back is a timber constructed single garage which presents options for storage or hobby space. The mature gardens boast an excellent amount of privacy and are a real delight; by the sellers own admission, its a place they spend a lot of time, and wouldn't you! Well-tended lawns lead down the garden, bypassing an array of established trees, fruit trees, shrubs, and wild flower beds along the way. A summer house at the end of the garden is an ideal place to sit and unwind, close enough to admire the far reaching, countryside views.
